On the occasion of participation in the European project "Creative Europe, the democracy of the work Music for Europe of young people" whose theme was inspired by the following sentence by Claudio Abbado:

"What is certain is that music is the most effective tool to build a better society. Not because it necessary for life. What's more, can change it, improve it, and in some cases even save it. I have always believed that music contains within itself a force capable of going beyond its own borders, to universally communicate and bring forth an intense ethical value. this is why i insist always on 'musical education, which ultimately becomes Human education. Before it is crucial that it is accessible to all, especially to young and younger, democratically, so as to constitute a different path, alternative, illness, discomfort, violence. music is an instrument of peace, it can and must cancel the system of oppression that still want to take advantage young hopes in every latitude.
